

Quality Assurance Policies

1. Information provided on this site is meant to compliment and not replace any advice or information from any other health providers.
2. The mission of this site is to assist and educate families in pain. All addictions and mental health afflictions are potentially dangerous and can lead to death. Our corporate motto is, "We are all one family". Educating the whole family as well as the identified mental health or addicted person is the basis to our contributions to family cures.
3. This site has been developed for families with identified dysfunction and addiction issues as well as professionals who treat them. However, this site may also be useful for prevention and intervention purposes of the general public, EAP's and corrections.
4. We maintain strict privacy/confidential policies and are in compliance with the US Federal Guidelines on confidentiality.
5. All information on this site is original. Any links to external sources are clearly identified and credited.
6. User fees support this site. No Governmental funding has been provided.
7. This site does not accept or support any advertising.
